PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

Product Engineer with experience designing and building scalable digital products, enterprise commerce platforms, and modern business applications. I specialize in transforming business requirements into reliable, maintainable software using Next.js, React, TypeScript, Node.js, Prisma, PostgreSQL, and modern cloud infrastructure.

My work combines product thinking with engineering discipline, focusing on clean architecture, performance optimization, accessibility, and long-term maintainability. I enjoy partnering with businesses to solve real-world problems through technology, building software that not only works today but continues to scale as organizations grow.

ENGINEERING PHILOSOPHY

I believe software should solve business problems before technical problems.

Every product I build is guided by four principles:

- Build for scalability, not just delivery.
- Prioritize maintainability through clean architecture.
- Focus on performance, accessibility, and user experience from day one.
- Treat software as a long-term product that evolves through continuous improvement.
